

Creative Ability Development Teacher Training 2024!

Creative Ability Development is fun. Do-able for both teachers and families. It is inspiring and is a great way to support your students to become more and more fluent musically. It has been done internationally for over 30 years.

I'm aiming to go through the stages of CAD from the new pre-twinkle collection called Playing From the Heart, the collection which is perfect for book 1-3 players called Fun Improvisation for (Violin, Viola, Cello, Piano, Flute) to the collection which teaches young players to improvise in every key called Basslines and Fantasies, as well as the book teaching us how to improvise in simultaneous parts called Improvising String Quartets.

It could be useful, if you would like, to read about Creative Ability Development on my website:

On the website, you could look at the section:

"Creative Ability Development"

"Musicians Bill of Rights"

And whatever else might interest you

The Five Stages of Creative Ability article:

"Off the Page" is a collection of tunes which teach young musicians how to modulate key in different genres of world musics. There is a section of my website devoted to that collaboration, and there are good reviews of this project.

Alice Kanack is the founder of Creative Ability Development

Here is some information from her website, in her words.

Here is a link for ordering materials. I will have these materials for us to use together.

Ask any questions, any time.
Bring my attention to anything I need to be aware of

Thank you so much for inviting me.
